Malone named TSUD president

Dr. Michael E. Malone, assistant vice chancellor and associate vice chancellor for academic affairs at Western Carolina University, Cullowhee, NC, has been appointed as the new president for Troy State University Dothan. The announcement was made by Dr. Jack Hawkins, Jr., chancellor of The Troy State University System, at a scheduled press conference on the TSUD campus. Dr. Malone becomes the third president for TSUD following the retirement of Dr. Thomas Harrison, who served as TSUD president from December 1985 through August 1995. Mr. Robert Paul, first president of TSUD, served as vice president and chief executive officer from 1960-1984 before being named president in 1985.

Malone received his bachelor’s degree from the University of Montevallo and received two master’s degrees, one from The University of Alabama at Birmingham and the other from Old Dominion University. He received the Ph.D. from The University of Alabama in 1976. Malone brings a wealth of experience to his position in teaching, student services, military operations, and higher education administration.

“TSUD is poised to emerge as the premiere community university, not only in Alabama, but the Southeast.”

Malone

Dr. Hawkins remarked about the new president by saying, “Dr. Malone was highly recommended by the Presidential Selection Committee and a variety of his constituencies at Western Carolina. His strengths are in strategic planning, institutional marketing, and throughout his career he has demonstrated commitment and concern for students. We are confident he will provide great leadership and a great vision for Troy State University Dothan.” His official duties will begin on June 1, 1996.

As an avid outdoorsman, Malone participates in and enjoys running and cycling activities. He has participated in 18 marathons, 4 triathlons, 2 biathlons, and has cycled through Europe. During his earlier presentation on February 16th to TSUD faculty, staff, and students, he commented that if appointed to the president’s position at TSUD, he would challenge staff and faculty to stay up with him as he brought the stamina and discipline of a marathoner to this office. A native of Birmingham, Malone is married to Janice Tarrant Malone, and they have a 15-year-old daughter, Erin.

Malone commented, “TSUD is poised to emerge as the premiere community university, not only in Alabama, but the Southeast. The Wiregrass community challenges TSUD to be the premiere community university.”

The search for the TSUD president began with a formal announcement and application process in September 1995. A Presidential Selection Committee was formed, and on January 11, 1996, the Committee held its first meeting to review 42 applicants from across the country. The process of narrowing the list of applicants continued through the month, and on January 29th, the Committee selected the five finalists for the position of TSUD president.

On February 15th and 16th, the five finalists were on the Dothan campus to give a presentation to faculty, staff, and students, and to meet and interview with the Selection Committee. From the five finalists came three candidates, whose names were submitted to Dr. Hawkins for final consideration. Hawkins’ announcement came two weeks after the announcement of the

Sublettes Chosen as Runners-Up in A.E.A. “Parents of the Year” Program

Dr. Jack Sublette, executive vice president and vice president for student affairs, and his wife, Beverly, were recently named runners-up in the “Parents of the Year” program sponsored by the Alabama Education Association. Nancy Worley, A.E.A. president, presented a plaque for the Sublettes at the A.E.A. convention in Mobile on Monday, March 25.

Nominated and recommended by several personnel in the Enterprise City School System, the Sublettes received this award for their participation in and support of the many school-related activities of their daughters, including parent associations and other school functions, teacher conferences, fund raising, American Education Week activities, establishing closer ties between community and schools, and making contributions which “set them apart from the thousands of other parents in the state.” One nominator wrote, “Jack and Beverly have demanding professional careers, but it has been clear to me that their careers as parents are their most valued and important professions.”

The Sublettes responded to their award by saying, “It is a great honor to be recognized for doing what we love to do—supporting Susanne and Elizabeth and public education. We gladly sold the candy (even in the Wal-Mart parking lot on Friday night) and pizzas, etc., went on field trips on school buses, made and sold chili dogs at football games, and helped in the classrooms. We have had good experiences, we have met wonderful people, and we have been able to watch our girls grow and achieve.”

McArthur’s Travel to Spain

Charles and Priscilla McArthur made a ten-day visit to Spain between quarters. They found Spain to be a very modern, democratic west European country, despite the long period of Franco’s dictatorship. Dr. Priscilla McArthur commented that Spain’s history is characterized by long periods of outside domination by Iberians, Celts, Phoenicians, Greeks, Romans for 500 years and Moors for 800 years, and finally unification in 1492. She said, “It is fascinating to see the interplay of the religious, cultural, and social contributions to Spain of these many civilizations.” Both remarked that the Prado was spectacular and the Alhambra was another world and time.

U.S. Marine Corps Assistant Commandant to Speak at TSU

U.S. Marine Corps Lt. Gen. Richard I. Neal, deputy commander-in-chief and chief of staff of the U. S. Central Command at MacDill Air Force Base in Florida, will be the feature speaker at TSU’s initial International Program Lecture Series. The convocation, which is open to the public, begins at 10:00 A.M., Thursday, May 9, in the Adams Center Theatre. Neal will speak on the national security policy within the Persian Gulf Region. Many may remember General Neal as the news media briefer for General Norman Schwarzkopf during Desert Storm.

Neal is a highly decorated Marine Corps officer. He assumed his present position with the U.S. Central Command in August 1994. In his current position at U.S. Central Command, Neal is one of the world’s foremost experts about the Persian Gulf Region. He has recently been selected to be the assistant commandant of the U.S. Marine Corps and will be promoted to a four-star general.

In addition to various other command assignments during his Marine Corps career, Neal served in Vietnam as a forward observer and infantry battalion advisor to the Vietnamese Marine Corps during the late 1960’s and early 1970’s.

His personal decorations include the Silver Star Medal, the Defense Superior Service Medal, the Bronze Star Medal, the Purple Heart, the Navy Commendation Medal, the Navy Achievement Medal, and the Combat Action Ribbon.

DIGITAL COLLECTIONS

The explosion of the popularity of the Internet has added tremendous impetus to the digitization of library resources. A major impediment to the sharing of information worldwide has been that most documents are not yet available in electronic format.

Universities and cultural institutions, as major collectors and organizers of information, represent one of the best sources of “content” for this emerging global network. Ms. Bernath, library staff member, pointed out a document, Digital Collections Inventory Report, prepared by the Council on Library Resources, that attempts to survey the work done in the field towards digitization. The following are some examples of what is being done.

National Digital Library Project (The Library of Congress): A five year project to make historical collections from the Library of Congress and other major research libraries available over the Internet. At the end of the first five year period (1995-2000) over 1 million items from the Library will be available online. This 1 million will be complemented by 4 million items from other major research libraries. The 1 million from the Library of Congress will consist of hundreds of American collections, mostly primary source materials about the founding of the United States, including photographs, sound recordings, printed materials and motion pictures.

Making of America (Cornell University and the University of Michigan): Intends to preserve and make available in electronic format a significant corpus of primary source material on the history of the United States. Initially, 10,000 monographs documenting the period from 1850-1877 will be scanned and made available online.

International Relations Project: Chicago-Kent School of Law: A major project to scan the Chicago-Kent’s Information Center Collections (including the Chicago-Kent Law Library, the Library of International Relations, and the Stuart Business Library) to enable worldwide access. Thus far, 2 million pages have been digitized.

Project Janus Columbia University Law Library: Project to scan 10,000-12,000 law titles with full-text search and retrieval capabilities.

Electronic Beowulf: British Library: Original thousand year old manuscript has been digitized by high resolution cameras. Allows scholars to view text in microscopic detail, recapture words and phrases erased by the original scribes, as well as words that have been hidden since the 1731 fire damage and restoration.

Birmingham Public Library: Have converted over 250,000 photographs to a macintosh-based 12-inch WORM optical disc system.
